(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

POWHATAN, N. C., November 1.—Senator J. P. Sadler is investigating the burning of the large dwelling on his estate near Ballville. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin. Mr. Sadler purchased the estate some months ago at public auction for $8,000, since that time it has been unoccupied. Two out-buildings were also destroyed.

MILK HIGH AT CAPITAL

Increase of 25 Per Cent. in Small Quantities Hard on Poor.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, Munsey Building.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.

There is a probability that there will be a marked falling off in the consumption of Virginia milk in Washington, owing to the big advance in the retail prices, effective here this morning. It jumped from 4 cents a pint to 5 cents and from 5 cents a quart to 6 cents.

This scale makes the hardship fall mainly on the poor man, who can afford only a pint a day for his family. It is a 25 per cent. increase for him and only 12 1/2 per cent. increase for the man who can afford a quart a day.

The milkmen have been quick to hear the protest, which is taking the shape of a falling off in the plant consumers. Numerous quart consumers have discontinued to-day, but a very much larger falling off in the pint orders is reported. The milkmen admit that there has been such a falling off

THE CITIES OF REFUGE.

The political constitution of the Hebrew nation shines like a radiant star through subsequent ages of dark oppression and injustice. It awarded as well as realized Plato's phantom republic. It was a Utopia adapted to the needs of a people, a people, municipal, sanitary and criminal, in the wonder and admiration of minds versed in such matters. Under the aegis of its civil code the Hebrews were safe from the ruin which afterward befell the Greeks and Romans.

Our State Boards of Charities and our laws for public sanitation and for the prevention of cruelty to animals, were antedated three thousand years by the poor laws and the statutes concerning dumb brutes, contagious diseases, etc. The Hebrew polity was both philanthropic and practical.

The institution of the cities of refuge is a remarkable evidence of this. This provision was a kindly safeguard against the abuses incident to the age-old custom of blood-avenging. It was in contrast rather than analogous to the right of asylum afterward instituted in other countries. It sheltered the innocent only. It gave the right of trial before an impartial tribunal before the infliction of penalty.

The cities were chosen with reference to accessibility. They were distributed at equal distances from each other, and on both sides of the river. Like the New Jerusalem, with its three gates on each side, nobody need make a wide circuit to get in, as the refuge was near at hand. All roads leading to it were kept in good repair, and free of stones
